IMPACT STUDY

The Department of Economics represented by Prof. Rulina Villoria and Prof. Ricardo Deri also met with the members of St. Bede Mushroom and Vegetable Growers Association in the afternoon of September 12, 2017 to present and validate the result of Impact Study that they gathered last March 2017. To note, the study on the Impact of San Beda to Holy Family Catholic Mission specifically in Pactil was done after the implementation of the six year development plan from 2011 to 2017 in preparation for the phase out of the project. Findings presented were: strong impact on spiritual development followed by livelihood development. It is noteworthy that skills development has less impact for the respondents. It is however declared by the group during the validation that they have skills especially in the production of products for livelihood. Finalization of the write-up of the Impact Study conducted by Department of Economics is still ongoing.

TALK ON MARIAN SPIRITUALITY

Simultaneously, while the Department of Economics was presenting the result of impact study to the people, the Department of Theology represented by Prof. Julius Tutor and Prof. Kim Guia was also giving a talk on Marian Spirituality. A session was given to Pactil Elementary School in the afternoon of September 12 which was attended by 30 Grade 4 to 6 pupils. Another session was given to Pactil Youth Organization in the afternoon of September 13, 2017 and was attended by 25 participants. The spiritual talk was organized for the birth month of Mary and in preparation for the month of the Holy Rosary.

The team also visited the local government of Bauko in the morning of September 13, 2017 to give courtesy to Mayor, Hon. Abraham Akilit and to give updates about the project in Pactil. During the visit, the unused building of the association was raised and he assured that he had assigned someone from the office of Municipal Agriculturist on the monitoring of the project in Pactil especially on the unused building donated by DA. The team also went to the Office of Municipal Agriculturist (OMAg), Municipal Planning and Development Office (MPDO) and Livelihood Unit to gather data for the research of the faculty.

The last activity was the facilitation of the planning of the Saint Bede Mushroom and Vegetable Growers Association and this was attended by 23 members. The social worker shared that even if the project of the San Beda is phasing out in Pactil as what all welfare organizations do, the association should continue to plan for the development of the group. During the planning, issues and concerns by the association based R Q W K H R I I L F H U ¶ V P H H W I participatory situational analysis last visit are listed down. Members were asked to identify which are urgent and not urgent. The planning focused on the urgent concerns and they were instructed to assess its causes and effects. With the following causes, the group was able to identify action to solve each issue with timeline and responsible persons. Some of their planned activities are election of new president, centralization of funds of the association to the treasurer, and follow-up on the documents of donated mushroom building so the association can already use it. They were advised to update the assigned social worker of the progress of implementation of their plan.

7. ATTENDANCE IN ASIAN CONNECT
SEPTEMBER 21 ±22, 2017

A forum on Extension in Higher Education, dubbed as ASEANCONNECT was attended by the ICIC Director Joselito J. Tablang last Sept. 21-22, 2017. The forum was held at Century Park Hotel and was organized by Polytechnic University of the Philippines in partnership with Commission in Higher Education and supported by APCORE or Asia-Pacific Consortium of Researchers and Educators, Inc.

The forum gave an opportunity for us to benchmark the extension programs and community researches of state universities and colleges in the Philippines, and other Asean universities and colleges. Most of the extension programs presented are related to livelihood projects, environmental sustainability, and community organizing and development programs with the objective of empowering people in the community. This forum also opens the opportunity for us to link with APCORE for possible collaboration with the member universities and colleges in the areas of extension and research.
